

detention. The petitioner in making the present petition for a writ of habeas corpus has acted not only on his own behalf, but presumably on behalf of Harry K. Thaw."

BOWS TO MANDATE OF SIR LOMER GOUIN.

Judge Hutchinson referred to the message of Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier and Attorney-General, delivered yesterday by Alime Geoffrion, saying:

"The Attorney-General of this province, by his representative, has stated that it is the desire of the Attorney-General that this case be disposed of as speedily as possible, and that if the prisoner is legally imprisoned he be returned to the jail to await his trial, but if he is under wrongful restraint, he be liberated at once, and that a desire of the prisoner to remain in the jail to avoid proceedings that may be taken against him under Federal statute by the Dominion Government must not be considered, and that the jail of this district is not to be used as a house of refuge."

After citing many previous decisions, Judge Hutchinson delivered the point of his decision in these words:

"I therefore grant the said petition, maintain the said writ of habeas corpus and declare the same absolute, and further declare that the jailer has no authority to detain Harry K. Thaw in the common jail, and, whether Thaw wishes to exercise and enjoy his personal liberty or not, he is entitled to his full liberty and he is hereby liberated and discharged from his present detention in the jail and is hereby restored to the liberty he enjoyed previous to his arrest and detention."

EVERYTHING READY FOR EXPECTED RACE TO BORDER.

Everything is in readiness in Coatsville to give Thaw a speedy hearing. It is from that point the real race for the border will begin. The attorneys for New York State have a swift auto in waiting there, as have Thaw's lawyers.

It is practically certain that Thaw will not be allowed to remain in Vermont. If present plans do not go astray he will be rushed out of that State immediately and started on his way to New York.

The attorneys for New York State will make an immediate attempt to get an order for his deportation. Then they plan to hurry him across the border and toward the New York State line in an automobile before his attorneys can take further legal action.

Once in the State he can be returned to Mattawan without delay.

PRESSURE TO MAKE CHAUFPEUR THOMPSON REVEAL PLOT.

"Educated Roger" Thompson, chauffeur away from Mattawan more than two weeks ago, must linger in Sherbrooke at least another week, under $500 bail, before he stands trial on the double charge of having violated the Dominion immigration laws by crossing the border "by stealth" and "by doing assisting an undesirable, Thaw, to enter Canada."

His case came before Magistrate Mulvany today and with the consent of both sides was set over. Thompson's lawyers, in reality Thaw's lawyers, are in the meantime collecting data to prove Thompson's claim that he was born in Toronto and was never naturalized in the United States. With this established he will be subject to a $500 fine or to three months' imprisonment, but could not be deported.

Roger's chief desire now is to get back to Broadway, but he can't so long as an indictment hangs over him charging him with conspiring with others to liberate Thaw.

LEAVES POLICE FORCE TO BECOME LAWYER

Son of New York's Only Woman Policeman Resigns Position.

Policeman James S. Goodwin, who is the twenty-four-year-old son of Detective Lieutenant Isabella Goodwin, the only woman on the rolls of the New York department, resigned his job today. He is studying to be a lawyer.

Goodwin had been a policeman two years and after some experience in the detective bureau was transferred to the Morrisania station as a mounted man. Nothing was known of his intention to quit until he stepped in front of Lieut. McGorry today and laid his revolver, his badge and his official keys on the desk and said he was through.

"Look here, young man," said McGorry. "Aren't you a little hasty? Your mother is likely to look you up for a thing like this."

"Oh, I know she doesn't like it," said the young man. "But I have been studying law at Fordham and reading law in all my spare time, and the time has come when I have either got to be a good lawyer or a good policeman. I can't be both. Mother agreed last night to let me have my own way."

SCHOONER LOST IN STORM.

Two Men Drowned When Hartley Was Wrecked Off Cape Hatteras.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The three-masted schooner Hartley was wrecked on the beach at Chicomico life-saving station, off Cape Hatteras, today, and two members of the crew of seven lost their lives.

The ship was a total loss, according to reports received by the revenue cutter service.

So Caribbean on the Way. According to cable reports the Royal Mail steamship Caribbean, which will replace the steamship Orontea in the New York-Bermuda service on Sept. 17, left Cherbourg at 7 P. M. last night and Southampton noon today for the above, Bermuda and New York, carrying a large list of American aboard.

ANOTHER ALLEGED BASEBALL LOTTERY MANAGER ARRESTED

Anthony Comstock Presents

Testimony and Accused Is Held in $500 Bail.

HAD ONE PRIZE OF $200.

It Is Charged That Every Chance in the Pool Sold for 50 Cents.

One more arrest was effected today through exposure by The Evening World of baseball gambling pools. Lotteries under the law, operated in New York for the purpose of fleecing the gullible. The prisoner was Emil C. Hottinger, a stoop-shouldered, red-mustached man of forty years, living at No. 60 West Forty-seventh street, where, according to the complaint, he conducted the "International Baseball Information Company."

The complaint against Hottinger was Anthony Comstock, head of the Society for the Suppression of Vice. Through a detective, John McGowan, Comstock gathered enough evidence to have Hottinger, who was arraigned today in the West Side Court, held under $500 bail for Special Sessions on a charge of having violated Section No. 1273 of the Penal Code, which relates to lotteries. Comstock declared that Hottinger, from his home, printed and circulated 5,000 tickets in the pool that was operated under the name of "The International Baseball Information Company," using for bait a prize of $200 for the "winning combination" and $10 for consolation prize. Unlike other pools in town, Hottinger did not offer chances in the lottery for 50 cents. Every chance in the Hottinger pool, according to the detective, was sold for 50 cents, and 4,000 of the current issue had been disposed of before Hottinger was arrested. According to the slips, premiums were to be redeemed at Hottinger's home.

In court Hottinger, who described himself as a bookkeeper, refused to make any statement. He said he was willing to take his chances "down town," meaning General Sessions.

The evidence produced by Comstock at the hearing, Comstock declaring he had 1,000 of Hottinger's tickets in his possession, showed that Hottinger's method was, with the exception of the fact that he asked the credulous 50 cents instead of 25, just like the baseball lottery conducted by Henry Francis Toren under the name of the Metropolitan Baseball Information Bureau.

ASSEMBLYMAN FINDS SON IN JAIL AS HOBO.

Young Matthews Says Paterson Playmates Forced Him to Board Freight Train With Them.

(Special to The Evening World.)

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Ambrose Matthews, son of Assemblyman Matthews of Paterson, N. J., and a page in the New Jersey Legislature, was discovered in Goshen jail today by his father. The boy had been missing from home for ten days. The Paterson police had searched that city for him and had dragged the Passaic river and ponds near his home.

According to the young man's story, John Malley, Lee Hart and George Stone, Paterson boys of about the same age as himself, forced him to board an Erie freight train at Paterson by throwing his car aboard and holding him in a car until the train started.

The boys were arrested in Middletown as tramps and committed to jail for ten days. Young Matthews was ashamed to tell his father where he was and his father heard of his plight through a jail official.

KING GEORGE'S COUSIN SIZES UP LORD HALDANE

"A Damn Good Lawyer and Politician, But a Damn Poor Soldier," Says Col. Fitz-George.

A passenger on the Cunard liner Carmania, arriving this afternoon, was Col. Sir Augustus P. Fitz-George K. C. V. O., C. B., a cousin of the King of England. Col. Sir Fitz-George is a son of the Duke of Cambridge, who was a grand-uncle of the King.

Our English visitor is on his way to look after extensive mining properties in which he is interested in the Cobalt district of Canada. He is a military man and has been stationed in various of His Majesty's possessions.

"You just escaped meeting Lord Haldane, who returned to England on the Louisiana this morning," Sir Augustus was told.

"Ah, yes," he replied, "Lord Haldane. A damn good lawyer and politician, but a damn poor soldier. When he was Secretary for War he was quite unpopular with the army—quite unpopular."

Emblems Gaynor Will Use in the Campaign, And Banner That Roasts Tammany Leader

(Specially Photographed by an Evening World Photographer.)

5,000 NOMINATE GAYNOR, WHO IS NEAR A COLLAPSE.

stood on the City Hall steps. Great bands of perspiration stood out on his bald head and trickled down his face. He mopped his head with a handkerchief repeatedly. His face was excessively pale and his hands shook.

He spoke but once during the proceedings and that was when he leaned over to Mr. Appleton and whispered excitedly four or five words. Mr. Schiff explained to the crowd that the Mayor's sound troubled his throat so that it would be impossible for him to make a speech. Not merely was he forced to remain silent, but he only stood for brief intervals before the cheering throngs and waved the shovels that had been placed in his hands.

To-morrow, the Mayor goes to the Adirondacks for rest and recuperation. His campaign will be left in the hands of physically stronger men.

MAYOR SEIZED SHOVEL AND SHOUTED TO CROWD.

The Mayor's notification was somewhat handicapped by the weakness of the speaker's voice. Few in the audience heard what any of the spokesmen said. The Mayor's expert handling of the spade, which was presented to him in the presence of the throng, elicited great applause. At the close of the ceremonies when Secretary Robert Adamson had read that the Mayor had shown all his energy into the campaign, the Mayor seized his shovel with eagerness and shouted:

"That's what we'll do!" His voice was weak, and he plainly showed the effects of his recent attack. Growing out of the day's functions came the announcement that Michael J. Drummond, the Mayor's Commissioner of Charities, would in all probability be the candidate for Controller on the Gaynor ticket. The announcement, which was backed by authoritative persons in the Mayor's confidence, created great concern to the Fusionists, who had expected to see the Mayor accept William A. Prendergast as his candidate for Controller.

A dozen or more clubs and associations with banners were in the line of march, but most of them marshaled only about twenty-five members each. All told, there were one thousand marchers who had formed a line just outside of City Hall Park and marched into the open plaza. There the police had cleared away a great space. Outside the police line thousands of men and women employed in downtown office buildings pressed in a stifling jam to see the unusual spectacle.

When it was found that the marching organizations did not fill the plaza, the police lines were drawn and the noon-day spectators packed themselves up against the steps of the hall. It was impossible for any save those on the steps to hear what was said by the various speakers.

FIRST CHEERING LASTS A FULL MINUTE.

All the enthusiasm that was stirred up came from the appearance of the Mayor waving his shovel and making a pantomime of shoveling the rascals out of the City Hall when that reference in his speech was reached by Secretary Adamson during the reading. The cheering was not prolonged or unbecomingly loud. On three occasions it broke out for the time it lasted one minute. The second and third times it was of thirty seconds' duration.

THREE ORGANIZATIONS TURNED OUT WITH BANDS.

There were but three organized and lined-up bodies in the gathering. These were the Bronx County Jeffersonian Union of three hundred men carrying shovels led by Eugene McGuire and Thomas H. O'Neill, both of whom had their training as former Tammany leaders. They marched in front with a band. The Gaynor League of Foreign-Born Citizens and the East Side Gaynor League together numbered 300 men, coming from the lower east side. The third organization of any size was the Gaynor Enrollment Committee of Brooklyn, with about one hundred men in line and a band.

The stage setting for the demonstration was carefully arranged. Three hundred policemen under Inspector Lahey formed a guard of honor. It was a subject of passing comment that one of the police commanders was Capt. Cray, brother-in-law of Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader.

The classic City Hall building formed a fine background and the broad steps led up to their portion, which was the stage for the principal actors in the political drama. Out on the plaza three large standards had been set up bearing broad surfaces on which were painted the epigrams of the coming campaign. One read "I have not turned the city over to the spoilation of anyone—William J. Gaynor." Another read, "I have been Mayor—William J. Gaynor." In each case the signature was a facsimile reproduction of the Mayor's handwriting.

SHOVELS CARRIED SIGN ROASTING "C. F. M."

In the centre of the plaza was a large pile of shovels. Over them was a banner reading: "Way down under the body of C. F. M. He tried to fire a Governor and grab a city all in one year."

The shovels were all new and had been passed out, so it was said, by subway contractors to all who desired to carry them in the parade.

The Mayor and his friends gathered in his private office while the crowds were assembling. At a quarter before 1 o'clock the Mayor led the way to the steps and, going to the front, bowed and waved his hat to the crowd. Then Jacob H. Schiff said a few words of preliminary introduction for H. Ross Appleton to make the formal address inviting the Mayor to run on an independent ticket, nominated by petition. Chairman Appleton presented Mr. Gaynor with a shovel as the emblem of the new party. The Mayor, standing at the front and waving the shovel, while the crowd, that had not heard a word cheered happily.

Mr. Adamson shouted so that all could hear.

Opening the ceremonies, Jacob H. Schiff said, in part:

"I deem it a great honor to have been called upon to open this assembly, which I should think is a more unique fusion or non-partisan committee than has ever come together in this city. The movement which we propose to originate today is destined to demonstrate that the people of New York will not tolerate dictation from self-appointed committees and administrative such as we have not placed by either of the two other nominees. Who, though both may be of high type, do not possess the experience nor the qualifications which have made Mayor Gaynor so successful a municipal administrator."

In placing Mayor Gaynor in nomination Chairman Ross Appleton said:

"Mayor Gaynor, this form of nomination marks a new era in our municipal life. It is an uprising of the people, demanding the continuance in office of a public servant who has never faltered in his duty to the citizens at large in every office he has occupied, and the divestment of municipal issues from national and State politics. It is now my pleasant duty to present you with the official emblem of the Gaynor Independent League—the shovel."

The shovel is emblematic of subway construction. Its use upon the official ballot will bury opposition on Nov. 4, and the citizens of New York may continue to transact the business of the city at the office of the Mayor in the City Hall."

MAYOR UNABLE TO READ HIS SPEECH.

The Mayor stood on the top step and rained his hand to the crowd. He said something, but his words were drowned in the cheering. Then Secretary Adamson stepped forward and read the Mayor's speech. It was as follows:

"What you do this day shall become memorable. You are teaching the intelligent people of this city how they may nominate their candidates for office. If they see it and have the spirit, and not submit to having candidates imposed on them by a little coterie of men who follow politics as a dishonest trade and have no other visible means of support."

"How different this vast and impressive scene is to the little scene which occurred in a room at Delmonico's the night a week ago. There sat at a table eight men to decide who might run for Mayor and other offices. They were all of one stripe, and of a kind fit even to cast lots on the garments of the city. Let me read their names to you, lest you have forgotten them:

"JOHN E. FOGGIE, "THOMAS POLEY, "FREDERICK BOWEN, "EDWARD S. MCALL, "JOHN FITZGERALD, "ANTHONY MURPHY, "JOHN GARVER."

"There was no room for any one except themselves. None of you were

WILSON RESUMES CONFERENCES ON MEXICAN AFFAIR

Discusses Protection of American Interests With Bryan and Meets Hale.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—With the return of President Wilson from the summer White House and the arrival of William Hayard Hale, who has been making observations in Mexico for the Administration, interest in the Mexican situation was revived.

Secretary Bryan announced that no word had been received from Enver John Lind. Mr. Hale, who accompanied Mr. Lind from Mexico City to Vera Cruz, was said to be the bearer of personal messages to the President.

Before leaving late today for a lecture engagement Secretary Bryan went over Mexican developments of the last few days with President Wilson and discussed inquiries made by Americans regarding means of protection to their property if they leave Mexico.

Conferences between the President and Mr. Hale were arranged for late today. Mr. Bryan said that he would confer with Mr. Hale to-morrow. Mr. Hale arrived late today. He denied that he carried the originals of any Cambos notes or any personal messages from Mr. Lind to the President or to Secretary Bryan.

"I don't see why so much importance has been attached to my movements," said he. "I am simply a private traveler, who has found Mexico an interesting field during the last few weeks. Any information I have gathered is, of course, at the disposal of the President and the State Department if they care for it."

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 3.—The second army division under General Carter's command at Texas City again was placed on a war footing today upon orders received last night from Washington. The troops are ready to embark on transports at a minute's notice.

COURT WAITS, NO JUDGE.

Magistrate Campbell Fills in When Harris Can't Be Found.

Morrisania Court, Bronx, was without a Magistrate until nearly noon today. The courtroom was crowded with complainants, witnesses, attorneys and others who fussed and fretted. Magistrate Campbell appeared at 11:40 A. M., just as Magistrate Barlow was leaving Harlem Court to dispose of today's docket in Morrisania Court.

Magistrate House's term expired yesterday, and Magistrate Harris, who was to have taken his place, could not be found this morning, when runners were sent out to find a Magistrate.

Invited. None of you were allowed to make a suggestion. But here today all the different people of the city and their representative men have a voice. "Mr. Chairman, in presenting me with this shovel you stated that the meaning of it was that the work of constructing the subway was to go on vigorously. It means far more than that. It means that the people of this city are going to shovel all of these miserable little political grafters into one common dump heap."

CITY HALL PARK SCOURED FOR OCCASION.

The Mayor was at the City Hall early, when he arrived in his official car with his son, Rufus. He found that Commissioner William H. Edwards had scoured the park as clean as a freshly swept floor. Dozens of sweepers had descended early on the approaches to the City Hall and removed every vestige of dirt and paper. At the entrance to his office the Mayor encountered Police Inspector Lahey in full uniform. The Inspector told the Mayor that Commissioner Waldo had detailed 300 of the finest young men in the Police Department to keep everything in order. Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson came along, looked over the scenery and went into conference with the Mayor.

Among the early arrivals were William Lustgarten, who came in the Mayor's office with a full sized spade covered with gold foil. The spade was ornamented with ribbons. The spade was the first of several hundred which appeared at the ceremonies in the hands of the visiting delegations. There were bands and shouts and cheers.

After the delegations assembled in the plaza, the Committee on Arrangements which comprised Chairman Johnson, R. J. Greenhut, William Lustgarten, Albert Ottinger, J. C. McKnight, Eugene J. McGuire, Louis J. Horowitz, Judson J. Wall and Peter R. Gatina, accompanied by the twenty-two chairmen of the various delegations, called upon the Mayor in his private office and escorted him to the plaza.

Secretary Adamson gave out the names of the organizations which participated in the ceremony as follows:

East Side Property Owners' Association, Citizens Democratic County Club of New York, Colored Citizens' Gaynor League, D.H. DeLeonis Club of the Third Assembly District, Borough Democratic Club of the Bronx, Borough Park Gaynor League, Business Men's Progressive Association, Bohemian-American League, Bronx County Jeffersonian Union, Future Club of Bay Ridge, Gaynor League of the Sixteenth Assembly District, German Societies of Long Island and City, Gaynor Enrollment League, Gaynor League of Great Ridgewood and Gaynor Professional League, Hebrew Citizens' Association of Queens, Latin-American League, Mayor Gaynor Fusion and Nomination League, Frank McGarry Association, Municipal Party, National Wilson Club, People's Club of Bronx County, Progressive of the Bronx, the Voters' Federation and the Woodmen of the World.

WALL STREET.

Market Closing.—In the last hour the market was more quiet, with a number of stocks selling fractionally above the lower level of the recession.

Brokers reported continued liquidation in stocks and said a very thin market offered.

Amalgamated Copper rallied one point, while most of the active stocks recovered from one-quarter to three-quarters of the early losses.

The final prices showed not decline from yesterday's final prices from 1/4 to 1/2.

While the reaction was extensive the total dealings were not on a large scale. The market closed steady, close to the best prices of the partial recovery.

At the opening, with the exception of steel common, smelters and one or two other issues, the market opened at further fractional losses from Tuesday's final prices. The initial decline extended to a full point in Amalgamated Copper, Northern Pacific 3-4, and Union Pacific 7-8, while there were declines of 1-4 to 3-4 in Reading, Southern Pacific, Atchafalpa and other issues. There was a steady selling movement from the opening, with a disposition to pay more attention than heretofore to the strength of cotton, wheat and corn.

The lowest prices were established shortly after 11 o'clock, with net declines of 1/4 in Union Pacific, Reading 1/4, New Haven 1 and Copper 1/2, with concessions of less importance in the other issues.

Shortly after 11 the reactionary movement took on more momentum and additional declines were sustained. Lower prices had been sustained at midday, extreme losses extending to nearly 3 points in Reading as compared with Tuesday's final, Union Pacific lost as much and declines of 1/4 to 1/2 were sustained throughout the list.

In the early afternoon prices hardened around the lower level established, but did not seem to possess the vigor to rally beyond fractional limits.

FINANCIAL ITEMS. Owing to lack of a quorum the regular meeting of the Interboro Rapid Transit Company was put off until next Wednesday; at what time action will be taken on the dividend.

The Interboro Rapid Transit Company reports for July net corporate income of $248,708, an increase of $92,429. The American Can Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1/4 per cent on its preferred stock, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 18. Kansas, Oklahoma, Southern Nebraska, Missouri and Southern Illinois have suffered a loss of practically all their surplus corn crop, while other States show considerable deterioration. The California Petroleum Company has passed the dividend on its common stock, but has declared the regular 1-8 per cent on the preferred. The last dividend of 1/2 per cent on the common was paid July 1. The dividend on the preferred will be payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 18.

The Closing Quotations. The following are the highest, lowest and last prices for the principal stocks and bonds as compared with yesterday's closing prices:
